

Lisa Scott is a motivational, inspirational Life Coach who embraces the philosophy of gratitude and giving to the world so that we can all leave it better than we found it. Lisa joyfully serves as an instrument of love and uses this pure and positive guide in her life and consulting practice. Lisa's positive attitude and life long love for learning transcend into the customer's world, creating great learning synergy and a real desire to achieve personal and business results and to manage change in a positive way.

Lisa Scott has a forte in Executive and Leadership Development, Employee Coaching, Employee Relations consulting, and Strategic Development. She is a skilled educator and consultant, who works collaboratively with her customers to introduce Change, with the appropriate tools, processes and planning required to achieve their business and personal objectives.

Lisa's credentials include a Business degree and certification in the Harvard School of Business Strategic Planning Process augmented with over twenty years of success in corporate and consulting environments for Fortune 1000 companies.

As a Senior Executive in the banking industry, Lisa's exposure incorporated full Strategic responsibility, including organizational development, cultural change and change management, strategy development and execution.

Lisa's positive attitude and life long love for learning transcend into the customer's world, creating great learning synergy and a real desire to achieve personal and business results and to manage change in a productive way.

Former VP of Human Resources (Canada) and VP Training & Development (North America) with exposure to full HR responsibilities including international training and development, organization and cultural change.

Recognized Master Trainer and Keynote Speaker

Corporate and Consulting Member of the Executive and Sr. Management Teams.

Motivational, inspirational, skilled communicator with a forte in management development and employee relations consulting and facilitating.