

Halton Black History

Awareness Society

Presents

Local Lens

Essay & Video Contest

A Focus on the Black Experience in Halton

How Can We Eradicate Racism, Hate & Bullying?

LOVE

The Problem

Negative relations towards marginalized communities and individuals, as well as bullying, prejudice and inequality, are still causing undue harm, hardship, anxiety and loneliness - especially in children and youth.

perfect

courage

t O G E t h E R

Solution

Innovative and creative ways to deliver cultural education that promotes inclusivity, equality and self-development and a project that helps us appreciate our individual and collective “Community, Roots and Culture”.

Local Lens

The Halton Black History Awareness Society (HBHAS), in partnership with numerous Halton community associates, are pleased to invite young people to learn about Halton's diverse history and present innovative ways to eradicate racism, hate and bullying within Halton.

How does it work?

HBHAS' Local Lens project is a learning opportunity for young people and audiences. Young people are invited to enter the essay contest. Through video, spoken word and written essays they present their ideas around how to eradicate racism, hate and bullying within Halton.

We look forward to working with you!

Halton Black History Awareness Society
Dennis Scott & Keda Edwards Pierre
HBHAScontest@gmail.com